Go visit Iceland with Season Tours!

Aug 2015 • Friends

A group of friends in a small bus with personal attention and knowledgeable (and funny!) driver made for an EXCELLENT first visit to Iceland! August was cool and rainy but we didn't miss a waterfall or scenic (breathtakingly) spot in our 1 day trip to the West and 3 day trip to the Glaciers. Well worth the expense!

This day tour starts with a one-hour flight from Reykjavik to Ísafjörður. Ísafjörður is the largest town in the northwest of Iceland. The mountains in this area are all flat at the top and we drive up to one of them to enjoy the spectacular view over the fjords in the west. We drive through tunnels, hills, and mountains between the fjords. We see waterfalls and learn about the history and the nature in the most remote and rural area of Iceland.
